Redwood Painting Wins Fifth Consecutive International Safety Award

Pittsburg, CA— August 7, 2019 — Redwood Painting, Co., an industrial coatings company based out of Pittsburg, California, was awarded their the fifth consecutive FCA Contractors Recognizing Excellence in Safety Training (CREST) Award at the International Leadership Council meeting held in Boston.

They have received recognition every year since the awards started in 2011, and were finalists for the award the three years prior to winning in the Industrial Coating “More than 150,000 Hours” category for the first time in 2014.

Redwood Painting, Co., is led by its President, Charles Del Monte, who is very active in the painting industry in Northern California and a member of the Board of Directors of the Northern California Painting and Finishing Contractors association in the Bay Area.

“Safety is about creating a culture with high employee engagement and participation to ensure that everyone goes home to their friends and family at the end of each workday,” said Del Monte. “As a company we are approaching 1,700,000 hours without a recordable incident in the field over the last eight years. We could not be prouder of our record and our employees who take safety very seriously.”

The FCA CREST Awards encourages and recognizes excellence in safety training and are designed to objectively evaluate contractors based on key leading and lagging measures of safety. Winners are objectively selected based on key safety metrics including number of years the company has had a safety program, safety training, injury/illness rates, recordable incident rates, EMR trends, etc. Winners of this award are considered to have the top safety programs in their respective industries internationally.

About Redwood Painting Co.

Redwood Painting Co. has been involved in the application of a wide variety of protective coating systems for commercial, industrial and residential clients for more than 70 years. Established in 1947 by D. P. Del Monte, his one-man house painting business evolved into one of the largest and most experienced painting firms in the Western United States. Today it is managed by his sons, Charles and George, and has added a third generation, grandson Dominic to their staff. Today they have the equipment, facilities and personnel to apply conventional and specialized coatings to the largest commercial and industrial projects.
